APAC Effie Awards 2016 Calls for Entries

Singapore (15 October 2015) – The Asia Pacific Effie Awards has launched its call for entries for the 2016 Awards.

Entering the third edition, APAC Effie is recognised by advertisers and agencies as the gold symbol of marketing effectiveness in the region, a pre-eminent award that celebrates and awards ideas that work.

This year's award offers 37 categories, inviting advertisers and agencies to submit their works, which have proven results in meeting their strategic objectives. Entrants will be competing against the most outstanding works from across the region.

A new category called "Real-Time Marketing" was introduced this year to reflect the increasing speed at which business operates and the acceleration of marketing communications in the industry today. This category awards campaigns that have obtained results from real-time conversations that happens in social networks and other real-time platforms.

"APAC Effie continues to stay relevant with the ever-evolving media and communications landscape. With nearly two-thirds (76%) of global marketers using some form of real-time marketing, it is essential that we recognise ideas that work in this category,” said Cheuk Chiang, who has been appointed the 2016 APAC Effie Awards Chairman. He added, “APAC Effie has established itself as the one award that marketers and agencies want to win because it represents the most effective and the most outstanding work in the region. Entering work into the competition shows that clients and agencies are committed to driving commercial excellence and innovation and I look forward to be inspired by these submissions.”

As the Call for Entry campaign “Effectiveness Always Wins” says, every great idea has a story and it is a tale of creativity mixed with marketing ingenuity that gets the results.

The 2016 Awards is now accepting entries through 21 December 2015 for all marketing communication efforts that have ran in Asia Pacific during the qualifying period. Winners will be announced at the Awards Gala in Singapore in April 2016.
