Effie Awards Ireland will replace ADFX, previously the country’s biennial marketing effectiveness awards, following a recent survey of IAPI members, when 84% voted to join the Effie network. effectiveness to our industry with Effie Awards Ireland. The not-for-profit status of the parent organisation was an important factor in our decision to partner with Effie Worldwide as IAPI is not seeking to commercialise their awards. Our aim is to continue to help drive marketing effectiveness through our expertise in commercial creativity and communications. We believe Effie Ireland is the perfect vehicle for us as it will give us a benchmark against global standards and deliver an ongoing education programme for our members.” Jimmy Murphy, President, IAPI and Director, Publicis, Dublin.

Effie’s mission is to lead, inspire and champion the practice and practitioners of marketing effectiveness globally, which it achieves through a variety of educational and thought leadership initiatives.

“We are proud to welcome IAPI and the ADFX Awards to the Effie network,” said Traci Alford, President & CEO of Effie Worldwide. “We look forward to partnering with IAPI to showcase the most effective marketing and marketers in Ireland via the Effie Awards and the Effie Index, while continuing to elevate the global conversation around ideas that work.”

Effie Ireland’s finalists and winners will receive points towards their rankings in the Global Effie Index. The Effie Index ranks the most effective marketers, brands, holding companies, agency networks, agency offices and independent agencies globally and will also determine local rankings within Ireland and Europe.

Effie Awards Ireland is holding its launch event on November 28th in Dublin. Call for Entries for its inaugural Effie Awards program will take place in Q1 2020.

The Effie Awards has championed the most effective marketing efforts since 1968. Ireland joins the Effie network as its 55th program, and 50th national partner.
